

Breaking and making boxes

Open up the box you brought to class. What things do you notice about it?

Draw the shape that your opened-up box makes. This is called a net.

Make up a different net and draw it here. Can you make the box that has this net?

How do you think you could calculate the capacity of a rectangular box?

How do you think you could calculate the capacity of a non-rectangular box?
