Borrowing Books

The habit of reading is one of the greatest resources of mankind; and we enjoy reading books that belong to us much more than if they are borrowed. A borrowed book is like a guest in the house; it must be treated with great care, with a certain considerate formality. You must see that it sustains no damage; it must not suffer while under your roof. You cannot leave it carelessly, you cannot mark it, you cannot turn down the pages, you cannot use it familiarly. And then, some day, although this is seldom done, you really ought to return it.

5. When the author describes a borrowed book as like a guest in the house he is suggesting
  - A. they are expensive.
  - B. he will keep it forever.
  - C. it should be shown respect.
  - D. it shouldn't be allowed into the house.

6. The author would most likely
  - A. never read his own books.
  - B. treat his own books carefully.
  - C. leave his own books lying around the house.
  - D. lend his own books out to as many people as possible.
